

MEDIA RELEASE

Parliamentary Service netball team receives new uniforms

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: Authorised by Kala Aufa – Clerk of Parliament

WEDNESDAY 08.06.2022 | The Parliamentary Service netball team taking part in the Private Companies Netball Competition now has a new set of uniforms, courtesy of a sponsorship by the Service through the Office of the Clerk of Parliament.

The team is gearing up for the upcoming 2022-2023 season which will commence in October after a long spell, as restrictions on COVID-19 start to ease on the sporting front.

Players and officials received the uniforms at a presentation ceremony held at the Parliament House Poolside recently.

Speaking on behalf of the Clerk of Parliament, First Clerk Assistant, Yape Moses encouraged the team to be good ambassadors of the Service during the competition.

“These uniforms represent the National Parliament as an institution,” she said. “Therefore players wearing these uniforms are representatives of this institution when they are on and off the court.”

Ms Moses added that she was pleased that staff members and their dependents were taking part in representative events such as sports, as it was good for networking as well as promoting healthy lifestyles.

She wished the team all the best in their preparations and participation for the season, encouraging them also to make the most of their time, bonding as a team and having fun.

The supplier of the uniforms is Pacific Uniforms Ltd, featuring its Tura Sports brand.

Ends...//

Caption: Photos of the Parliamentary Service netball team players and officials in their new uniform during the official photoshoot at the presentation ceremony. Photo: Parliamentary Media Services